Stepping into Third Year ...

It was a humble start for our journal, 2 years back, with a aim of providing a platform for researchers, academicians and clinicians of restorative dentistry, particularly from Asian continent and also from other parts of the world to publish their research and clinical work. We had a overwhelming response from across the globe. We have received manuscripts from more than 30 countries so far. I thank these professional colleagues for their contribution and look forward for many more research work from them and their colleagues.

Joining of Dr Pravin, as Managing Editor, in the 2nd year of our journal has been a great support to the editorial team. Editorial team and the reviewers are considered as the backbone for the success of any journal. Our team has been extremely supportive.

We, at IJOPRD, assure to provide the best of research and clinical publication to our readers in years to come.

Happy Reading ...
