Where have we reached?

Dear Readers,

Its been 4 years now, International Journal of Prosthodontics and Restorative Dentistry (IJOPRD) was started with a sole aim for promoting research in prosthodontics and restorative dentistry across the world. Its been a good journey so far, it gives us immense happiness that we have received an overwhelming response from our professional colleagues all over the world. I congratulate and also thank the editorial team members for their support in getting the best manuscript accepted after a quality review. I take this opportunity to welcome few new members to the editorial team also.

In 2016, IJOPRD editorial team is working toward indexing the journal in Medline.

I wish our colleagues a happy reading and also request them to submit the original high-quality manuscripts.
